

Kiss Of The Romantic

© 2010 Kiss Of The Romantic

ROMANTIC WORKSHOP #24

THE BEST HONEY-DO LIST EVER!

Do you male readers have a honey-do list of chores to do from your wife or girlfriend? One that is full of mundane chores, such as, clean the carpet, clean the garage, paint the bathroom, etc.? Have you ever considered giving one to her, listing the things you would like her to do? Probably not, but chances are if you did your list would look nothing like the one she made for you! Am I right? Well here is your chance to make your list and do it right! Of course both partners will need to agree on taking part in this workshop and decide on how the lists become activated. This workshop will attempt to guide you and your lady through making and using the best honey-do lists ever! You will each compile a list of specific dates, pampering, and sexual chores that you would love to have your partner do for you or to you. Then you will decide how these lists will be used.

Before we get into the specifics, let us discuss how this workshop may benefit your romantic relationship. It's all about interacting with your significant other. If you do not engage each other with interesting and fun things to do, then you are not keeping your romance alive. Just hanging out together and doing nothing will not measure up; your relationship will stagnate. Besides, life is far too short to waste on a mundane existence. Go for some sexual gusto and keep in mind that God gave you sexuality to make use of, not to waste!

First of all, you will be listing your favorite things on your mates' honey-do list. The process of making this list will in itself help you know yourself better. Don't hold back on what activities you list, make it truly your favorite sex, dates, and pampering list of all time. Take your time with compiling your list, this way you will have plenty of opportunity to contemplate what great things to put on your partners' honey-do list. Are you a fool for oral sex? Put it on the list! Are you more adventurous than your partner? Then add your kinky plans to the list. Make sure you include all the details so that there will be no misunderstandings about your honey-do chore. Do you wish you had a particular sex toy that you spotted online? Then by all means, list it for purchase on your partners' list. If you have a thing for watching your partner do a particular act, do not exclude it from your list. Do you want your mate to take you camping, hiking, kayaking, skiing, or to a particular concert? How about some pampering wishes like massage, manicure, pedicure, bubble-bath, or foot caressing? Make your list as long as you wish. The number of items on your list does not have to be the same as the list your partner makes for you.

After both partners have declared their list complete, you will separate the things on your list into three categories. Title your page or pages as "Georges" or "Roxanne's" (examples) Honey-Do List. The categories are, of course, dates, pampering, and sexual.

Now we must devise a way and agree upon methods to activate your honey-do lists. Actually, you may decide to use more than one method to use your lists. One suggestion is to use the list as what you get if you win a wager with your partner. An example is: "I bet you any choice of one honey-do that you can't guess in three guesses who called today". If your partner takes that bet; then the winner gets to declare which chore on the list the loser must perform. Another method can be to automatically reward a choice of honey-do to the other person whenever a mate forgets a birthday, anniversary, holiday, or fails to do a requested errand such as pick up some bread and milk. You might even agree to "punish" the partner who slips with a swear word (a designated word or words). Then you can say "Ha! You said the "f" word; you owe me one honey-do chore"! Then there is the "gift note in an envelope". You may wish to write a note declaring one free honey-do item, stuff it in an envelope, and give it as a birthday, Christmas, or anniversary gift. Maybe you both would like to initiate some amorous fun tonight. Do a quick paper-rock-scissors game to see who gets to activate a honey-do item! You could even agree together that a honey-do is activated when a partner is caught violating a traffic law while driving. Additionally, if a traffic citation is given, the other partner gets one honey-do from each category!

As you can see there are many ways to implement your honey-do lists. Make up your own method or methods of activating them if you like. Your relationship will definitely benefit, and both of you will likely get more booty of your favorite kind!